

Honolulu City Council Delegation to Japan
Nagaoka, Edogawa and Hiroshima
Japan
July 31-August 6, 2019

It is critical for the Honolulu City Council to continue to pursue international relations and sister city relationships as they enhance tourism, business relations, educational, cultural and sports exchanges, as well as the flow of knowledge and ideas. These play vital roles in enhancing Honolulu's unique and rich cultural, social, and economic fabric.

Since 1959 with the establishment of the first relationship with the City of Hiroshima, Honolulu's Sister City Program has grown, now numbering 33 established relationships in six continents. The following Honolulu City Council Delegation to Japan consisted of official visits to Nagaoka, Edogawa and Hiroshima.

Thursday, August 1:

City of Nagaoka- One of the most vibrant and close relationships that Honolulu has with international cities is that with the city of Nagaoka which was established in January 2012. Relationships have been established in educational and cultural exchanges, business, and agriculture. Nagaoka sends its students to Honolulu in January, March, and December each year. These visits strengthen mutual student programs with Honolulu's public and private schools, and educate the students on shared war history (Nagaoka is the home of the architect of the attack on Pearl Harbor, Admiral Yamamoto, and was destroyed by American bombers in the waning stages of WWII). Both Nagaoka City officials (often led by its Mayor) and students attend the annual Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day events in December; Nagaoka also provided the spectacular fireworks for the annual Honolulu Festival in March since inception of the sister city relationship.

City of Hiroshima- Hiroshima is Honolulu's first sister city with the adoption of Council Resolution #349 on May 19, 1959 and a sister city agreement was signed by the Mayors of Honolulu and Hiroshima on June 15, 1959. Hawaii's people have strong historical ties to Hiroshima dating back more than 130 years (established May 1959). Between 1885 and 1894, approximately 30,000 people arrived here from Japan, primarily to work in sugar plantations where conditions were harsh. An estimated one-third of these immigrants came from Hiroshima. The sister city relationship between Honolulu and Hiroshima grew from the People to People Program established by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in the 1950s to promote peace and mutual understanding between citizens in countries throughout the world.

Since the establishment of the sister city relationship, Honolulu and Hiroshima have embarked on mutual exchanges and visits between the two cities in the fields of education, culture, business, and trade. In 2018, for instance, the annual Hiroshima goodwill delegation that visits Honolulu was on its 53rd year visit since it started in 1966. In 1985, the prefecture of Hiroshima presented Honolulu with the Hiroshima Peace Bell, and a bell-ringing ceremony is held each year at the Izumo Taishakyo Mission near Chinatown to mark the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima. Included in the ceremony is a traditional Shinto offering of fruits, vegetables, sake and rice for purification, as well as a blessing. In 2001, the Hiroshima Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Hiroshima Prefecture, and the City of Hiroshima presented the Honolulu Japanese Chamber of Commerce a replica of the Torii gate at Hiyajima, a World Heritage site, as a symbol of the everlasting friendship between the two cities. In 2002, the Honolulu Japanese Chamber of Commerce presented the Torii gate to the City and County of Honolulu, and this beautiful 26-foot-high structure now stands at the intersection of King and Beretania streets in Moiliili.

On July 2, 2019 Mayor Kirk Caldwell was joined by Hiroshima Mayor Kazumi Matsui, Hiroshima Council Chair Haruo Yamada and Honolulu Council Chair Ikaika Anderson to officially renew the sister city relationship between the two cities as part of the 60th Anniversary of this partnership. In the afternoon of July 2nd, both mayors presided over a Ceremonial Tree Planting in the Foster Botanical Garden. This ceremonial tree planting is part of a program that sends seeds from atomic bomb surviving trees, called Moku or Hibakujumoku to locations around the world. The Moku tree sapling, raised from the seed of an atomic surviving tree was planted to mark Honolulu and Hiroshima's 60th Anniversary of the sister city relationship.

19) Hiroshima Peace Ceremony- The Hiroshima Peace Memorial Ceremony is held each year on the anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima at the exact moment when the atomic bomb was dropped, on August 6th at 8:15 am at Hiroshima Peace Memorial Park. Some 50,000 local citizens and visitors, as well as numerous ambassadors and dignitaries from around 70 countries, gather to console the spirits of those killed by the atomic bomb and pursue lasting world peace. Held virtually every year since 1947, just two years after the atomic bomb was dropped, this ceremony featured speeches with entreaties for peace from the Prime Minister of Japan, the Mayor of Hiroshima and other noteworthy figures. During the ceremony bells rang out at temples, sirens wailed throughout the city and the citizens of Hiroshima observed a solemn moment of silence in remembrance. The Atomic Bomb Dome was located almost directly underneath the explosion but somehow avoided complete destruction and the remains of the building are still standing today. The residents of Hiroshima keep this tragic reminder of war intact and the site was designated as a World Heritage Site in 1996.
